

ABSTRACT

The close relationship between Religion, Economy and the Household cannot be denied in this life, we as economic beings who need material to survive, also we are raised in a family or even have a family wherein the values of worship are embedded and are slave to Allah SWT . However, the current situation of the structure of the face of Muslim households regarding the concept of sustenance in household life, especially in this modern era, has largely deviated from its true nature. The paradigm of modern society in this century regarding religion (Religion), especially Islam, that religion is considered as a sacred ritual that only aims to educate the heart and purify the soul, to seek spiritual tranquility in order to calm down and carry out obligations and stay away from prohibitions. People measure success and achievement based solely on material, so that people compete to get recognition from others with material achievements so that things that should be considered become neglected, such as worshipping God, caring for the family, socializing with surrounding environment and so on. Islamic households are households that instill the values of faith, noble virtues, good morals, and other social elements that stand on a solid foundation of sharia. Even up to the management of financial assets must be based on the Qur'an and Hadith. This study elaborates on matters that affect the governance of Muslim household wealth from the perspective of the development of Islamic Economics from time to time, as well as the development of modern (contemporary) household wealth management and to determine the extent to which management of Islamic wealth is important. The factors that influence the development process are; Basic Islamic Aqeedah, Islamic Studies, Islamic wealth management. This research is descriptive qualitative research using interviews and literature review. The results of this research are; in managing the wealth of houses from time to time slowly has been eroded from the presence of influences from outside Islam as a result of the development of times and civilizations from various sides, both economic, educational, cultural, social and thought. The impact is that Islamic households are now getting away from the values of Islamic Shari'a as a household foundation including; Aqeedah, understanding of Religious Sciences, understanding the concept of sustenance, and management of Islamic wealth, this is very important if the basis and backing of a Muslim's life has shifted from what should be something that is not impossible if it influences life as a whole.
