ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Praise be to God, The Cherisher and Sustainer of the Worlds. After all it has been the hardest year and filled with divine wisdom at once. Only by Allah's will and mercy, I can get through all of it and eventually finish my thesis entitled "An analysis of factors affecting domestic consumption for Indonesian natural rubber". I will use this page as an opportunity to express my sincere appreciation and gratitude to everyone who always helps, supports, and gives contribution in completing this thesis.

My special thanks goes to my content advisor, (Ibu) Endang Sih Prapti, MA, Dra., for the good cooperation, constructive guidance, and nice discussion during the writing process. Every single word coming from her is valuable for me to widen my horizon and I am therefore ready for entering the real world. My gratitude is also addressed to Ms. Sari Hidayati, as the language advisor, who has improved the grammar and style of my thesis so that it can be proudly presented.

I wish to express my gratitude to Mr. Asma'i Ishak, M.Bus., Ph.D, Drs., as the director of International Program (IP), the lecturers in the IP, from whom I got much insight, I'd like to thank them all for constructing a wide chamber in my brain to absorb the knowledge. The IP management staffs, especially Mas Erwan who has been very helpful in making the process done well, I thank them all. IP, keep up!

I would like to thank Mr. Sulaeman Dufford, the one who inspired me to always read, to keep away from TV, and to appreciate the time (Al-Ashr is enough for people to believe in God). My gratitude also goes to Mr. Akhyar Adnan and Ms. Anita Triastuti for the moral support, sharing, and advice they give to me. To Ms. Indranila Arsyanti, the office secretary of Doctoral Program, I thank her for ensuring him to verify my thesis, so that I can get the approval.

My great respect for my parents, may God bless my mother and father for the attention on their children's education, "you are the biggest support and prayers for me in everything". To the four brothers of mine, I thank them for patience, "you'll have it, too, Insaallah. We don't let the nation shattered, right?" My grandmothers, "I thank you for your prayers and advice". Grandfathers, rip, "I can feel your powers, too".

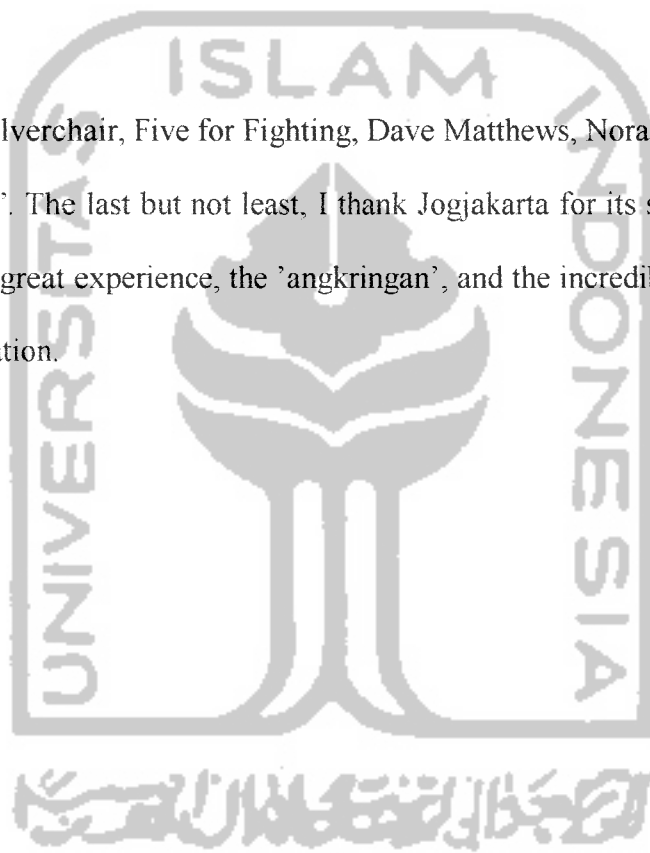

For my friends, "I thank you all". One said life is a drama theatre. When you're the actor, in your scenario, I might be the bad boy or anyone. And so when I'm the actor, in my scenario, there you are the best friends, the colleagues, the boarding-house friends, the business partners, the bands, the people who I know and the enemies. All of you, with no exception, directly or indirectly, have contributed to my thesis, thank you.

Special thanks for Terry, the natural born of a real Batavian, "I love it, Bro!", Ebet, "you're the definition of what a friend is", and the Management, Irfan, "thanks for connecting people", and the Accounting, Darwis and the Economics, Aix, "job seeks the people like you", and the bands, Cheting, "I don't feel lonely, I just wanna be alone!", and the Alcatraz prisoners at Jl. Jemb. Merah, Novi and the business, my teammate Farida, “congrats, you’ve just entered the GMU for M.Sc., I admire your spirit”.

I thank God for the existence of these people in my life. They are Gugum, “you have found your identity, haven’t you?” Shinta, “thanks for making me laugh during the hard times”, Neng Lina, “kadeudeuh ulah melang ulah hariwang, nyak!”

To Silverchair, Five for Fighting, Dave Matthews, Norah John, “thanks for your sounds”. The last but not least, I thank Jogjakarta for its silence, hospitality, security, the great experience, the ‘angkringan’, and the incredible nights that give much inspiration.
